Hanke to head Public Works

By Mike Myers

GRANITE CITY — To no one's surprise, former 3rd Ward Alderman Brett Hanke was appointed director of Public Works by Mayor Von Dee Cruse on Tuesday.

Hanke, engineer for the Sauget Sanitary Development and Research Association, served two years as chairman of the Street and Alley Committee while an alderman. He was offered the job of city engineer while an alderman, but declined. He was instrumental, however, in the hiring of former City Engineer Roger Hadley.

Hadley is generally remembered as being outspoken and not exactly popular — a description sometimes also used for Hanke.

"It's the plague of engineers," Hanke said. "Engineers have a tendency to tell it like it is and not embellish or sugar coat. Unfortunately, that's just what the city needs at this point, someone to tell it like it is."

"Having been an alderman,

Brett Hanke
... former alderman

although I'm not a politician, I think I understand a little about some of the personality problems."

Hanke said that as public works director he plans to do "exactly what the job entails as listed in the ordinance: study problems and come up with a good logical course of action."

He said the city has a number of master planning problems, including the areas of building maintenance, organization and sewers. He said he hopes to be able to prepare a comprehensive plan in each area, come up with feasible funding in conjunction with the comptroller, and get the problems resolved.

"I haven't been promised anything exactly, but I just plan to do the best I can at the job as I see it," Hanke said.

Although he will be preparing plans for the various city departments, Hanke said, the plans will be given to the department heads for implementation.

Hanke said he and the city administration are preparing a list of projects to begin and the list will then be prioritized by the mayor.

Exactly when Hanke will begin his new job is, he said, "a little up in the air."

"My current employer has an option to retain me for 30 days after my resignation," he said.

"I resigned today (Wednesday) and my boss elected to exercise his option. So it may be as long as 30 days before I can start, if I can't get my present boss to change his mind."

Present 3rd Ward Aldermen Paul Fisk and Andy Timko were along with 5th Ward Alderman Lloyd Bailey and 7th Ward Alderman Emerald Dawda, the only ones to vote against Hanke's appointment. Hanke said he was surprised by the votes of the aldermen in his home ward.

"But I hate to speculate on political matters. I'll leave that to the politicians," he said.

The director of Public Works will be paid a salary not to exceed the mayor's. The mayor is paid $45,000 a year.

Hanke has degrees in civil engineering and engineering management from the University of Missouri at Rolla. He is a licensed professional engineer in Colorado, Kansas, Missouri and Illinois and is certified as an industrial and Class I wastewater treatment plant operator in Illinois.

Madison may test for drugs

By Andy Siering

Staff writer
MADISON — The city may test all municipal employees for drug and alcohol abuse.

Mayor John Bellico asked for a show of hands from the City Council at its meeting Monday authorizing City Attorney Casper Nighossian to bring a testing ordinance before the council.

Nighossian, who is also the attorney for the city of Venice, is already drafting a testing ordinance for Venice.

In other action, the council passed an appropriations ordinance Tuesday totaling $2,494,678.

The total is less than last year's appropriation, which was $2,595,195.

Appropriations new this year include: $25,000 for the renovation and refurbishing of offices in City Hall; $10,000 extra to pay for outside consultants; and a $4,000 raise for Nighossian.

The ordinance is available for viewing at City Hall, 1529 Third St.

The council authorized the Finance Committee to borrow $11,850 to pay judgments against the city in the matter of several ex-police officers who sued to collect incentive pay due them for classes they took. Sgt. Steve Skokio of the Police Department reported that a survey revealed there were 117 derelict vehicles parked on private property in the city.

The police will start citing the owners of the vehicles on Aug. 1, Skokio said.

The council passed an ordinance against derelict vehicles several months ago.

Bellico announced that he was creating a new committee and appointed its members.

The Ad Hoc Finance Oversight Committee will consist of Bellico, City Treasurer Fred Bathon, 3rd Ward Alderman John Hamm, 2nd Ward Alderman Jim Caffrey, City Comptroller Richard Tutka and Nighossian.

Bellico also appointed Grover "Junior" Brannam as the city's health officer.

Brannam, a retired businessman, replaces Jasper Clinchy, who died June 1.

The council also heard the results of testing for an eligibility list of potential policemen. The list is posted at the Police Department.

QuikTrip development sites OK'd

By Mike Myers

Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — June was a month of postponements, but July is ending on a high note for QuikTrip Corp.

QuikTrip will be allowed to build a convenience store and

And QuikTrip's site for another convenience store and service station on Madison and Grand avenues from Niedringhaus Avenue to 22nd Street is one hurdle away from final approval.

The City Council agreed unanimously Tuesday with the Plan Commission's approval of rezoning of the 2100 block of Grand Avenue from residential to commercial, clearing the way for QuikTrip's development in that area.

An ordinance reflecting the zoning change will now be written and voted on, probably at the next City Council meeting. The council voted 8-6 to grant the needed variances to allow QuikTrip to build on Nameoki Road.

'Big spender' defends votes

By Katie Hickox

Staff writer

WASHINGTON — A congressional watchdog group says that Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, is the worst of Capitol Hill's "big spenders," voting consistently last year for increased government spending as the federal budget deficit grew.

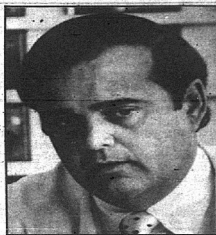

A new study released by the Washington-based National Taxpayers Union, a group specializing in budget imbalances, rated several Illinois lawmakers as "big spenders" after analyzing 1988 voting records to determine attitudes on spending issues.

Although Costello missed two-thirds of the votes analyzed for the study because he was not sworn in until last August, a spokesman for the taxpayer group said the congressman's low score — lowest in the group's history — still reflects a careless hand with shrinking federal coffers.

Costello dismissed the group's findings as "misleading," citing his co-sponsorship of a House plan for a balanced budget amendment to the Constitution as proof of a tight fist.

"I think that issuing a press release stating that I have the lowest rating in the history of their organization based on a handful of votes certainly does not reflect my position," Costello said.

"It's like judging a baseball hitter's batting average for the season based on his last game."

Jerry Costello
... findings 'misleading'

"He still had to vote for increased spending almost every time to score so low," countered Taxpayers spokesman Marshall Taylor. He admitted that Costello's missing months in Congress might have skewed the study's conclusion.

"It's a mentality here of throwing money at things," Taylor said. "These guys cannot mortgage to pile up deficits and continue the future."

Costello defended some of his votes as "important projects" for his district. Last year's appropriation bills pumped federal dollars into Scott Air Force Base, the new Alton Lock and Dam, and the Charles Melvin Price Support Center in Granite City.

Taylor said, "Pork barrel politics" could be partially blamed for excessive government spending. "I think congress is the major problem; they go beyond what the President asks for," he said.

Democratic Sens. Alan Dixon and Paul Simon are also big spenders, the report said. The two Illinois lawmakers were among the top eight "big spenders," the study showed.

However, Dixon said the study was an unfair portrayal of his job performance.

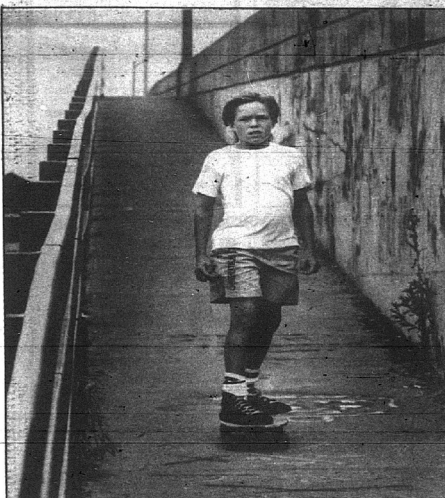

"No national special interest group bases its score on how well a member of Congress represents the people of Illinois," Dixon said.

According to Dixon, the Library of Congress counts 87 interest groups that tally congressional ratings based on votes.

A spokesman for Simon said the senator "would differ with his good friends over at the NTU."

"He may be voting for spending in certain programs, but Sen. Simon also supports cuts in certain programs," Simon spokesman Pamela Huey said.

Huey said Simon is co-sponsoring a Senate version of a Constitutional amendment mandating a balanced federal budget, due to be unveiled this week.

Dogcatcher gets beeper

MADISON — Humane Officer Dan Poston will be equipped with a beeper in order to better fulfill his duties, Mayor John Bellico said Tuesday at the City Council meeting.

The action came as the result of a dog-bite incident Monday. Brandon Chandler, 7, of the 2000 block of Rhodes Street was slightly bitten by a loose Doberman Pinscher.

Several calls were made to the police over a 90-minute period, but Poston could not be located, and no policeman responded.

Poston is a self-employed contractor.

The dog was captured by the police.

Steel quotas extended, but end in '92

By Jason Moody

Staff writer

WASHINGTON — While local based steel users and Illinois lawmakers hailed President George Bush's 30-month extension of U.S. steel quotas as a well-crafted compromise, the reaction from representatives of steel producers ranged from disappointment to betrayal.

Those who use steel, however, feel jubilation.

"Today's (Tuesday's) decision provides the first light at the end of the tunnel for steel consumers," said Tim Elder, a spokesman for Peoria-based Caterpillar Inc. "For almost five years we've been paying for the protection of the steel industry, and now it looks like we're finally moving back to the free market," he added.

"This will help retain jobs in the United States and enable our products containing steel to be more competitively priced," echoed House Minority Leader Bob Michel, R-Indiana, who testified before the House Ways and Means Committee in support of a similar extension proposal.

Although Illinois' two Democratic senators were more reserved, they also expressed approval for the Bush plan, which will abolish the so-called Voluntary Restraint Agreements by March 31, 1992.

"I have said all along that VRAs probably should be extended, and that steel users such as Caterpillar must be considered in the process," said Sen. Alan Dixon, D-Belleville. "The administration's approach to the problem seems to be an appropriate one."

"It's a fair decision and it's the right decision under the circumstances," said Sen. Paul Simon, D-Makanda. "It buys time and puts us on the path to fair trade and what I hope will be hard bargaining with our trading partners over the next two years."

However, lawmakers representing high steel-producing districts portrayed Bush's proposal as both hastily drafted and a betrayal of his campaign promise to protect the industry.

"The two and one-half years provided cannot be adequate to conduct, conclude and verify performance of such broad and difficult negotiations," said Pennsylvania Democratic Sen. John Chafee.

"The chances are slim to none that even the most determined U.S. negotiators can end a generation of foreign government subsidizing and unfair practices in a mere two and one-half years."

Rep. Pete Visclosky, an Indiana Democrat who represents the nation's highest steel-producing district, was even more perturbed.

"The President is essentially breaking his campaign pledge," Visclosky said. "This proposal does not ensure that the industry can continue its recovery and its modernization efforts because it relies too heavily upon obtaining sensitive international consensus."

"Steel producers have done a darn good job of modernizing," they were insisting on a five-year extension all along and that is it, no wavering at all," he said.

"Today's decision was obviously in the spirit of compromise."

Car crosses railroad tracks, hits pickup

A Granite City woman was charged with leaving the scene of an accident with vehicle damage following an incident on West Pontoon Road at the railroad tracks.

Janet Lee Stopkotte, 37, of the 2400 block of Lincoln Avenue was charged at 6:15 p.m. July 14. The accident occurred at shortly after 5:30 p.m. that day.

Police first talked with Richard A. Marzucco 30, of the 3000 block of Dale Avenue, who said he was driving east on West Pontoon Road when a tan colored Plymouth auto allegedly came into his lane while crossing the railroad tracks near Nameoki Road and hit the side of his Ford pickup truck.

Gary L. Shrum, 29, of the 2300 block of Paul Avenue, who also was driving east on West Pontoon Road, said after the Plymouth struck the pickup, the driver fled the scene of his Ford station wagon and left the scene.

The woman driver of the car was described to police and the auto, which was registered to a resident in the 2400 block of Lincoln Avenue, was located at Alton Square Shopping Center.

Stopkotte was subsequently arrested and charged. She posted her driver's license and was released.

Reports beating

Gene R. Pohlman, 25, of the 2200 block of Missouri Avenue reported July 14 that he was struck and kicked about the head by four men on the parking lot at the Jaycee Club Room, 2054 Edison Ave.

Pohlman said the assailants also kicked over his 1980 Honda motorcycle, breaking off the rearview mirror.

The victim sustained several lacerations, swelling and bruises on the head and was taken by a friend to St. Elizabeth Medical Center emergency room for treatment, a report said.

Arrested in Madison

Carolyn Faye Hall, 44, of the 1500 block of Seventh Street, Madison, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol and improper lane usage at 1:50 a.m. July 15.

An officer reported following an auto heading north in the 500 block of Washington Avenue and alleged the driver, later identified as Hall, crossed into the southbound lanes.

Hall's vehicle was stopped at Eighth Street and Washington Avenue. She declined to take a breath test and was released after posting $102 bail, pending an Aug. 8 appearance in the Madison County Court in Edwardsville.

Arrested after crashes

James Anthony Hidy, 29, of the 400 block of Kirkpatrick Homes was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol July 22 following two accidents. Hidy was allegedly driving south on Edwardsville Road when he struck a crossing car at the railroad tracks near 20th Street.

It was alleged he fled the scene and then struck the rear of a car driven by Rose M. Fudge of the 2300 block of Orville Avenue as she

Granite City

Battery alleged

Dennis Lee Lloyd, 28, of the 2100 block of Lee Avenue was booked on a state charge of battery after he allegedly slapped the 11-year-old child of a woman friend at the home July 17.

During a court appearance, Lloyd was ordered to pay a fine and to remain away from the residence for one week, a report said.

Salon burglary

In a burglary at Kokomo's Tanning Salon in the 2100 block of Pontoon Road, the intruder stole about $92 in currency and change, a swimsuit worth $24 and a pair of sun glasses, it was reported July 17 by Rhonda Vest. Entry apparently was gained through a window, a report said.

Hears intruder

A five-speed Western Auto girl's bicycle valued at $150 was taken in the burglary of a garage at the home of Barbara Ann Hawkins in the 2300 block of Gary Avenue, it was reported July 17.

Hawkins said she heard "a teenage voice" about 5 a.m. and then saw a police car near the house. Moments after the squad car left, she reported hearing someone open the garage door and later discovered the bicycle was gone.

Auto burglary

Gregory Phegley of the 2800 block of Warren Avenue reported July 17 that someone removed an equalizer unit valued at $40 from his auto parked in front of the home.

House vandalized

Vandals knocked holes in a hallway leading upstairs at a vacant house in the 2100 block of Adams Street, Philip Shands, owner of the rental property, reported July 18.

Holes also had been made in walls of both bedrooms and the intruders tore up the tile flooring in the kitchen and bedrooms, he said. Entry into the house was gained by removing a screen from a window. An inventory of property in the building was being compiled to determine if anything was missing.

Water pumps missing

Three gas-operated water pumps valued at $2,100 were stolen from a construction trailer at 22nd Street and the railroad tracks, it was reported July 18 by Paul Toenjes, job superintendent for Mississippi River Transmission Corp. of Columbia, Ill. Other items recently were discovered missing from the site, he said.

County warrant served

Michael J. Messick, 30, of the 2100 block of Cleveland Boulevard was picked up by police July 17 at St. Elizabeth Medical Center on an active warrant issued by the Madison County Sheriff's Office.

The warrant alleged failure to appear on a felony charge of aggravated criminal sexual abuse. Messick was transferred to the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville.

Door window broken

Bob S. North of the 2000 block of Grand Avenue reported July 18 that a man threw a folding chair through the front door window at his home and then pitched several bricks through another window at the residence. The suspect left the area on foot, he said.

Three charges filed

Charles L. Prater Jr., 41, of the 1400 block of Niedringhaus Avenue was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, improper lane usage and driving without a valid license when arrested at 3 a.m. July 18 at 20th Street and Madison Avenue.

An officer alleged seeing a car operated by Prater traveling north on Madison Avenue about 18 mph in a 30 mph zone, with the vehicle drifting on the roadway and braking repeatedly.

He halted the driver after the car stopped briefly at a green traffic light at 20th Street, the officer said. Prater declined to take a breath alcohol test, a report said. He posted $302 bail and was released.

Four charges filed

Four charges were filed against Edward Allen Holik, 28, of the 1600 block of Cleveland Boulevard, whose car was stopped by an officer in the 3100 block of Nameoki Road at 1:15 a.m. July 20.

Holik was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, illegal transportation of alcohol, driving without headlights when required and disobeying a flashing red traffic light. He consented to a breathalyzer test.

An officer, who saw a blue Ford Maverick operated by Holik turn north on Nameoki Road from the National Dodge parking area, followed the car and alleged a partially full can of beer was in the vehicle.

Three charges filed

Charles L. Prater Jr., 41, of the 1400 block of Niedringhaus Avenue was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol, improper lane usage and driving without a valid license when arrested at 3 a.m. July 18 at 20th Street and Madison Avenue.

An officer alleged seeing a car operated by Prater traveling north on Madison Avenue about 18 mph in a 30 mph zone, with the vehicle drifting on the roadway and braking repeatedly.

He halted the driver after the car stopped briefly at a green traffic light at 20th Street, the officer said. Prater declined to take a breath alcohol test, a report said. He posted $302 bail and was released.

DUI, stoplight charges

Dale Alan Hughes, 37, of the 3000 block of Sunbury Avenue was arrested July 23 and charged with driving under the influence of alcohol. Police reported observing him in the 1800 block of Madison

Radar detector gone

A radar detector worth $250 was taken from the 1984 Ford pickup of Kevin Koesterer of the 3100 block of Yale Drive, he reported July 18. The vehicle was parked in the driveway of the home when the theft occurred.

Groceries missing

A burglar entered the apartment of Sherri Crider in the 1800 block of State Street and stole about $75 worth of assorted groceries, she reported July 18. Four tires on her 1985 Oldsmobile Cutlass also were slashed, she said.

Chrysler entered

Harold B. Atchley of St. Louis reported July 18 a radar detector worth $125 was taken from the dash of his 1987 Chrysler New Yorker while the vehicle was parked at the rear of Royce Realty, 2882 Madison Ave.

Warrants served

Dawn Rochelle (Tingley) Dunbar, 21, of the 2600 block of Edwards Street was arrested at Nameoki and Johnson roads July 17 on two active warrants, alleging deceptive practice and failure to appear on a charge of illegal transportation of alcohol. She posted $169 bail and was released.

Cannabis charges filed

Frank Lee Cummins, 18, of Cabokia and Ricky Lee Hefferman, 19, of the 3600 block of Kirkpatrick Homes were charged with unlawful possession of cannabis July 6 when arrested in a parking lot in the 3600 block of Kirkpatrick Homes. A bag allegedly was found on Cummins along with a box containing three cigarettes. Two partly smoked cannabis cigarettes allegedly were found in Hefferman's pocket.

Vehicular homicide study topic

The Illinois Department of Transportation has announced approval of a highway safety grant for the office of Madison County State's Attorney William Haine.

According to Jan G. Zakrzewski, project director for the program, the grant will enable Todd Taplin to attend a four-day Vehicular Homicide/DWI Conference sponsored by the Northwestern University Traffic Institute.

The conference will provide him with a better understanding of DUI problems and their effect on highway safety conditions in Madison County. Also attending the conference will be Jay Tomerlin, as assistant state's attorney for the state's attorney's office.

A total of $718 in federal funds, which represents 60 percent of all project costs, has been approved for the program and will be reimbursed to the county based on documentation of eligible expenditures. The county will be responsible for providing the remaining 40 percent in matching funds.

Federal funds are provided by the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, U.S. Department of Transportation and administered by the Illinois Department of Transportation, Division of Traffic Safety.

Multiple sclerosis swim set

The Gateway Area Chapter of the National Multiple Sclerosis Society has announced that Charles Douglas and Carol Wall have been named co-chairmen of the local 1989 Swim for M.S.

The swim is to be held at Paddler's Pool in Granite City on Aug. 15 from 5:30 to 9:30 p.m. The funds raised will benefit the MS Society research and patient services programs.

While Dr. Jonas Salk and other notable researchers continue their search into the cause and cure of this mysterious crippling of young adults, the Multiple Sclerosis Society has provided wheelchairs, walkers, short-term counseling and other services to the hundreds of thousands of those afflicted.

Persons interested in swimming laps to raise funds for fighting MS and volunteers who may wish to assist in coordination activities may call Charles Douglas during the day at 451-0202.

TOPS plans yard sale

TOPS Chapter 2048 plans a yard sale this Saturday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at 4041 Rode, Granite City. Beginning at 1 p.m. clothing will be available for $1 a bag.

For sale will be a lady's bike, twin and queen size headboard, kitchen miscellaneous, knickknacks, shoes and a large assortment of clothing.

TOPS, a weight loss group, stands for Take Off Pounds Sensibly.

'Y' sleep-over tomorrow

The Tri-City Area YMCA will host a sleep-over for youth 6 to 13 years on Friday, July 28, from 8 p.m. to 8 a.m. Saturday, July 29. Activities include games, gym, swimming, pizza and sleeping at the 'Y.'

Registration is limited to 75 participants, and is now being taken at the YMCA, 2001 Edison Ave. Cost is $5 per child.

Participants should wear loose clothes and gym shoes and bring a swimming suit, towel, pillow and sleeping bag.

'Good year' at VLTC, director says

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

VENICE — More than half of the 686 students enrolled at the Venice-Lincoln Technical Center during the 1988-89 school year made some type of major progress.

Director Peter Ponce said 349 students increased their reading levels, completed a program, attained a GED (general educational development) certificate or passed Constitution requirements.

"For students overall to make that kind of progress made for a very good year," Ponce said.

Ponce presented a report to Venice School Board members this month showing 43 students had progressed to at least a sixth-grade reading level from the grade 0 to 5.9 range and that 157 students had progressed to at least a ninth-grade reading level from the grade six to 8.9 range.

Those scores were based on results of the Table of Adult Basic Education (TABE) test administered every three months to gauge progress. Ponce said the test is specifically designed for adult education programs.

Ponce said others who made progress were not included in the figures.

For example, some students who had a second-grade reading level may have advanced to a fourth- or fifth-grade reading level but were not included in the tabulations because they did not achieve the minimum.

Similarly, other students who exceeded the minimum would also not be reflected in those figures.

Ponce said for some students, any progress was good.

"It's important to remember that we deal with adults here, not kids, who work at their own pace," Ponce said.

"They may only want to read well enough to be to help their small children or to read the Bible."

"Just the fact that they come to school, for many, is an accomplishment."

Also during the school year, 30 students passed Constitution requirements; 38 obtained GED certificates; 26 received business certificates; 38 received nurse assistant certificates; five completed machine shop; and two completed the welding program.

Orientations for the coming school year will be given after Aug. 1, Ponce said. Classes begin Aug. 23.

For more information about programs at VLTC or to register for orientation, the number is 874-7752.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

During the pendency of a lawsuit, the attorney for the defendant may wish to take the plaintiff's deposition. In a deposition, the party being deposed answers questions under oath before a court reporter. Frequently clients inquire about the importance of the answers given in the deposition.

Attorneys take depositions for several reasons. In the first place, the attorney is able to gather information about the case from the answers to questions. In addition, the testimony given in a deposition can be used for impeachment purposes. This means that at trial the attorney can use the testimony in the deposition to show any contradictions between trial testimony and the sworn statement given in the deposition.

Finally, several Illinois cases stand for the proposition that assertions made in a deposition constitute binding judicial admissions. This means that the testimony in a deposition can be used as a basis for a motion for summary judgment. If a court grants a summary judgment, the judge decides that there is no genuine issue of material fact and that a trial is unnecessary.

In one recent case, a man was employed by the U.S. Postal Service for 12 years when he fell from a loading dock. He eventually filed suit against the architect of the loading dock.

The postal worker claimed in his deposition that he fell over rubber bumper strips which were used to prevent hand trucks from rolling off the loading dock. He apparently meant to say that he tripped over metal plates which were lowered electrically into trucks to aid loading. The company he sued manufactured the metal plates rather than the rubber bumper strips.

The attorney for the defendant filed a motion for summary judgment, asserting that his client neither designed the rubber bumper strips nor supervised their construction. The attorney for the plaintiff responded to this motion by submitting an affidavit indicating that his client had returned to the accident site, and he now realized that he had tripped over metal plates rather than rubber bumpers. The Court granted the motion for summary judgment, noting that the plaintiff had stated clearly in his deposition that he tripped over rubber bumper strips. In this case, the plaintiff failed to recover money for his injuries due to his confusion in the deposition.

Wicker furniture has never lost its appeal, but time can dull its good looks. Mix a cup of salt in a gallon of warm water, then scrub furniture with an old toothbrush to dislodge dirt, grime and let it dry in the sun. Shine with furniture polish for like-new results.

Turn a cozy window seat into a reading alcove. Add comfortable cushions and one or two wall-hung lamps.

Fresh plywood floor makes a sturdy and level base for a new tile or vinyl sheet floor. Be sure plywood is fastened securely; ringed nails or screws are usually preferable to staples.

Bethany Class meets for devotion

The Bethany Class of the First Baptist Church of Madison held its monthly meeting on July 10 at the home of Bernice Whitten, featuring the devotional "The Gospel and the Flag" by Namoi James.

Prayer was led by Naomi James, and President Delores Gasho led the group in the class aim, motto and Scripture. A business meeting followed.

A gift was presented to Sunday School teacher Vasta Williams in observance of her 33rd birthday, which she will celebrate this month. Cards also were signed and sent to members with July birthdays.

Refreshments were served to Gerie Ashford, Mary Link, Ethel Stone, Fanny Grace, Bonnie Fisher and George Ann Collins.

Amanda Derosssett returned from a week of Scout camp at the Flying F Dude Ranch in Dow, Ill.

Twenty-one girls from the surrounding area went to camp to learn about horses. Each girl was assigned a horse to take care of during the week. The girls were taught how to saddle, harness, exercise, groom, feed, and cool down their horse.

The girls also were given riding tips and told how to perform in a horse show. The girls performed their own horse show for families and friends.

Derosssett received participant ribbons for the halter class and pleasure riding contest; a sixth-place ribbon for pole bending; and a fourth-place ribbon for barrel racing in the Pee-wee Division. She also earned "Horse Lover" and "Horseback Riding" badges.

The monthly meeting of the Madison VFW Ladies Auxiliary Post 7451 was held July 19 at the Madison AMVETS Hall.

Members also attended the 12th District meeting, where they received a trophy and certificate for 100 percent membership.

Certificates of appreciation were presented for attaining child welfare quota, participating in the Voice of Democracy, and for exceptional achievement in the Department of Illinois VFW Hospital Program.

Fund-raisers were planned for the remainder of the year, including a car wash in August and a chili supper in October. Tentative plans are being made for a barbecue in September.

Members are being urged to attend the monthly meetings. Attending the meeting were: Patsy Harman, Cherrie Hayes, Maryann Dollar, Vickie Sherfy, Mabel Cochran, Jeannie Schoellman, Margie Brennam and Eleanor Armour.

The next meeting will be at 7 p.m. Aug. 16 at the Madison AMVETS Hall on Kennedy Drive.

The Ruth Sunday School Class of First Baptist Church in Madison met on July 18 at the church hall. A potluck dinner was served.

The business meeting was opened with a prayer by Maxine Lacus.

Mary Moore and Fay Little gave reports stating the group's sponsorship of a boy to summer camp. Plans were made to visit a nursing home in the future.

Alta Lassen gave the devotion, "Give Thanks in Every Thing," and Fanny Grace closed the meeting with prayer.

Others attending were: Margie Lewis, Nora Rogers, Marge Purcell, Loye Emery and guests, the Rev. John Knapp and his wife, Pat, and daughters Mindy, Carrie and Emily, Lisa Jones, and Norma Eaves.

The Glk Retirees met on July 20 at the home of Juanita Rosenberg.

After lunch at Josephine's in Godfrey, the group returned to the home of Van Stuart for an afternoon of cards.

Also attending were: Nell Talley, Lessie Dorch, Mary Moore, Mary Baumberger, Alberta Mikolaszuk, Ida Dant, Jane Duncan, Edith Wofford and guest Nell Jennings.

Madison-Venice Rotary installs officers for year

The Madison-Venice Rotary Club inaugurated the 1989-90 Rotary year with an installation dinner at Mazzini's Restaurant.

The new officers are: Tim McCarthy, president; Robert Vickers, vice president; Henry Baucum, treasurer; Victoria Vasileff, secretary; and Christ Pashoff, sergeant-at-arms.

McCarthy unveiled his plans for the club, stressing youth programs and club growth for the next year.

This year's Rotary theme, "Enjoy Rotary!," was carried out by attorney Amerik Kachagion, who sang old favorites, while accompanied by Rotarian Valerie Stevens.

Wade James was master of ceremonies and Past District Governor Richard Suess installed the new officers.

SEMC offers free diabetes class

There will be a free Take Charge of Your Diabetes class held at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, 2100 Madison Ave., on Wednesday, Aug. 9, from 7 to 10 p.m. in Pascal Hall, by the Emergency Room, on the ground floor of the medical center.

The class will include a general overview of diabetes presented by a diabetes nurse educator. It will include symptoms, management, exercise, testing and complications of diabetes.

A registered dietitian will present nutrition information related to diabetes, including information on sweeteners, fiber, label reading and fast foods.

A pharmacist will speak on medications, including insulin and oral agents.

Pre-registration is required.

For more information, or to register, call 796-3935.

BLACKBERRIES RUN WILD: Frank Lindsay of Nelson Drive in Pontoon Beach examines bunches of blackberries growing on a 35-foot-long vine running the length of his porch. He says he's never seen anything like it. The vine started growing under the porch, near his garden patch of blackberries. It found its way through a 1/4-inch crack in the wood decking and has grown to the opposite end of the 24-foot porch.

On the Cutting Edge

Dr. Lay speaks highly of the 'family'

The following feature is by Carol Winders, a staff writer in the communications department of St. Elizabeth Medical Center in Granite City.

GRANITE CITY — In the 30 years he has been general surgeon on staff at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Dr. Obert Lay has had a lot of opportunities to go practice elsewhere. But he's stayed, partly because of the hospital's philosophy and partly because of its "family" of employees.

"I believe that in medicine, you should take care of not just people with insurance, but anyone who needs your help," Lay said. "St. Elizabeth has never turned a patient away because he didn't have money or insurance."

"It didn't matter whether they were unemployed or a vagabond passing through. All of them have been seen, treated and taken care of. That, I respect."

That is part of our job, and the biggest reason why I stayed."

Lay attributes a lot of the spirit of SEMC to the Sisters of Divine Providence who own and operate the medical center.

"They're the basis of the spirit of the place. In spite of the heavy cost to them at times, they still have never changed. As a result, I have been very happy at St. Elizabeth Medical Center for many years," he said.

Lay, an Aurora, Ill., native, discovered the southwestern Illinois area while serving in the Air Corps, at Scott Air base, in World War II. After the war, he attended Washington University for his pre-med degree and then entered the medical school.

After finishing his residency, he arrived, ready to practice on the Illinois side of the Mississippi River.

Lay began his practice with referrals from Dr. Robert Hill, Dr. David Freedman and Dr.

Benjamin Berman. His reputation grew from there.

"They called so often I was here more than I was anywhere else," Lay said. "The practice grew quickly and spread to the other doctors."

During the first eight years, Lay was on staff at SEMC, only 25 doctors were on staff. There were no Emergency Room doctors.

"If anyone came into the emergency room, we had to take care of them. Having ER doctors was a real relief. Once, we had a tornado and 26 people came into the ER at once. I had to take six of them into surgery, and the others we saw and treated, and then sent them home."

During the incident, a television crew was trying to film the victims. "One young man came in with a cold. He fought his way through all the TV equipment and demanded that we see him first to take care of his cold, before we treated the people who had been in the tornado," Lay said.

"Things like that happened in those days. There weren't enough doctors to see everyone at once. We just had to work it out. We'd have auto accidents involving 20 or 30 people coming in at one time. That was in the old Emergency Room."

Thirty years ago, the medical center was different. For instance, there was no Respiratory Therapy department.

"I had some experience with respiratory machines while I was training, and I got the medical center to buy their first," Lay said. "Then, they had an entire respiratory department staffed with just one man. Now it has developed into a fantastic field. SEMC has a large department with the capabilities of supporting patients for any length of time. This is another excellent development I have seen."

When Lay first arrived, there was no Intensive Care Unit, no Acute Medical Care Unit.

"Those areas are a tremendous help in the treatment of critical patients," he said. "There have been a lot of changes over the 30 years, besides the obvious ones in the buildings."

Lay and his colleagues watched every brick being laid on the Doctors' Wing. "We couldn't wait until we got into it because we only had two operating rooms of fair size, and one little tiny one," Lay said.

"We watched it grow. It was quite a thrill. The medical staff was pleased that the medical center wanted to build and keep up with the latest in technology."

Advancements in technology and construction never outdid the people, according to Lay.

"The medical center had a real family feeling. You knew each associate, and they knew you. Everybody worked together to help each other. It felt almost like you were all one big family," Lay said.

"There have been a lot of changes over the years, a lot of old faces left and a lot of new faces hired, but you still have that family feeling with some."

By the mid-'60s, Lay was on staff at eight area hospitals, including Red Bud, Sparta, Highland, East St. Louis and both Belleville hospitals; plus, he was teaching at St. Louis County Hospital.

"It was pretty hard to get around by car when they needed me badly, so I decided to learn to fly a helicopter," Lay said. "I went over to Lambert Field, took lessons and became certified by the FAA (Federal Aviation Administration). Then I flew to Oklahoma to the factory, bought a two-seat helicopter, brought it back and used it every day.

"It was beneficial in that it saved a lot of time, and you didn't get stopped by trains. You could fly in all kinds of weather except blinding snow and heavy downpours. I was forced down in heavy rain once or twice, and had to land in farmers' fields, but otherwise you could fly every day, take off and land seven or eight times a day or night."

Lay asked the medical center to put a landing area on the roof, but was turned down for insurance reasons.

"That was a long time ago, and helicopters were not as common. I landed at the fire station and drove to the medical center, in a car I kept there."

Lay said. "It was very helpful for people who were in critical condition with gunshot wounds or who had been in really bad accidents. My being able to get to them fast was lifesaving. The speed of the helicopter actually saved their lives."

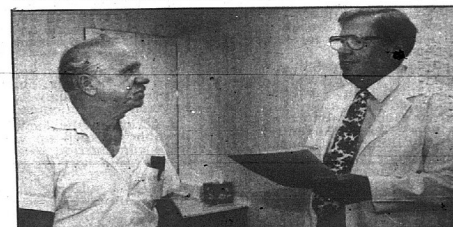

Eventually, Lay got to the point where even in a helicopter he couldn't keep up with all the demands on his time.

"I had to make a decision and Granite City seemed to need me most, so I settled here and have been here ever since," Lay said.

In his 30 years, Lay has seen many firsts. He helped to bring in the first gastroscopist and the first colonoscopes, both of which helped with diagnosis. He was also instrumental in getting the first laser to use in treatment. "I think the CT scanner has been one of the biggest assets that we've had in all aspects of medicine. It is a big help in diagnosing," Lay said. "The medical center has just recently updated to the newest CT on the market. I think that has had the biggest impact on medicine in this area."

"The medical center does an excellent job of attracting very good doctors in all the specialties," Lay said. "We also have a number of very excellent nurses. Some of them came right after I started and are still here. They have developed good judgment from all their years of experience."

Lay confers with patient Charles Kline.

Network of offices helping Hartigan serve all of Illinois

Neil F. Hartigan has announced for governor, and many Metro East Democrats think he will be successful.

It could be an unusually strong ticket, with Attorney General Hartigan seeking the top office, Treasurer Jerry Cosentino running for secretary of state, and Comptroller Roland Burris probably becoming the candidate for attorney general.

SHOWING INNOVATION in administering the attorney general's office, Hartigan in 1988-89 established a network of offices around the state.

Granite City is the site of an eight-county regional office that handles thousands of inquiries and serves as a kind of ombudsman bureau.

His purpose in branching out was to extend legal and other services to a greater number of Illinoisans, and it worked.

IT ALSO PROVED to be wise politically, giving him close links to citizens and governmental leaders in all geographic areas of the state. The expansion can hardly help but be a big plus in his quest for the position of governor.

Many people have been aided in getting their government to solve difficulties, and the overall cost of doing this has been kept within reasonable bounds, disarming his potential political enemies.

WAITING THEIR TURN and not creating divisive primary fights in past elections, both Hartigan the Democrat and Jim Edgar the Republican may be unstoppable for gubernatorial nominations in 1990.

Currently secretary of state, Edgar has built up a big "treasure chest" to finance his effort to follow the retiring Jim Thompson as governor.

The betting is that George Ryan, now lieutenant governor, will run for secretary of state and oppose Cosentino in the November '90 general election.

LET'S FOCUS on Hartigan today and recall his long pres-

Winter wonderland

By Bill Winter

ence in public office, including service as the 1973-76 lieutenant governor.

He was only 34 years old when elected to that post.

He sought re-election but the ticket list and Thompson began what will be a 14-year tenure as governor.

GAINING BUSINESS and financial experience, Hartigan next served as senior vice president of the First National Bank of Chicago.

In 1982 he defeated the incumbent attorney general, Tyrone Fahner, and then gained a second term in that office in 1986.

Hartigan permitted Adlai Stevenson III to push him out of the frauded the public. Such efforts have given Hartigan a solid image as a friend of working men and women.

A "BOY WONDER" in one of the toughest of all political realms, Chicago, Hartigan prior to becoming lieutenant governor performed a wide range of municipal assignments, including the fields of legislation, public health and safety, licensing, contracts and personnel administration.

As chief legal counsel for the park district, he initiated a land acquisition program that added 52 new parks in the Chicago area, and also developed a program to acquire 150 more.

For a time he held the title of administrative assistant to the late Mayor Richard Daley, father of the current Mayor Richard Daley.

CONSUMER ADVOCACY is the biggest task at Hartigan's Downstate offices, with many lawsuits pursued and other cases concluded through out-of-court settlements by producers of "lemon" goods.

Senior citizens, crime victims and many other citizens are being assisted.

It is estimated that Hartigan's work has saved more than $5 (for the state and individual citizens) for each $1 spent.

HARTIGAN SEES his decentralized approach as being similar to the judicial "circuit riders" who in olden times took government to where the people were.

And the attorney general has followed a similar pattern in his vote-gathering activities, going to the grassroots.

He has appeared often in Granite City and Madison for speaking engagements, including a campaign fund-raiser held July 21, and is likely to continue to do so throughout the next 15 months.

This is a good idea because there are many voters here, the race could be close, and he is a master at making new friends as he reaches out to greet people.

The price we all have to pay

Everything worth having comes with a price tag, it seems, so you should be able to soon determine for yourself just how much education and city government are worth in Illinois.

Starting next month, paychecks will start reflecting the higher state income tax rate approved by the General Assembly a few weeks ago. The new law raises the individual tax rate from 2.5 percent to 3 percent.

While some companies already have increased withholding, the majority will wait until they get official notification and tax tables. The Department of Revenue now has those tax tables in the mail.

You've probably read a lot about the increase, but until you notice less pay in your paycheck, it probably won't affect you. If you make $500 a week, your tax will increase from $12.50 to $15.

State officials figure that the higher tax probably won't have significant personal impact. Mainly it will mean smaller state tax refunds next spring.

There is a trade-off for some taxpayers. As a means of getting the initiative passed at the close of the legislative session, state leaders agreed to let property taxpayers double the deduction for property taxes on their state income tax form next year. That will nullify the increase somewhat, but only for those who pay property taxes.

The tax expires June 30, 1991, but show us a legislature willing to dump a reliable source of income and we'll show you a state body that was overtaxing in the first place. Illinois was not, as it ranked near the bottom of states.

There were other tax increases, too. Cigarette smokers are having a coughing fit over the increase in cigarette taxes, from 20 cents to 30 cents a pack. And motorists will be paying more per gallon — the state gas tax is increasing by three cents on both Aug. 1 and Jan. 1.

The Legislature is priming the pump of government, again with tax dollars. Just as we must live with the increases, so must the General Assembly live with the directive to spend that new money in the most efficient way.

Phone plan doesn't ring bell

Hearings conducted on proposed Illinois Bell pricing changes have shown that telephone users don't want to be billed extra for each call within their immediate geographic area.

"You should only pay for what you get," Illinois Bell says. It sounds good, but basic service ought not involve inhibiting local-area calls, even if computer technology has made it easy for the telephone company to keep track of them.

The restructuring rationale is that people are being undercharged for short-distance calls and overcharged for long-distance conversations, but one wonders how this can be proved. If lines are maintained between here and Montana and we only make one call there every 50 years, is the charge for it really excessive? If repeated calls are made between two nearby telephones, is it really costly to maintain that short line?

Illiteracy has become an epidemic

If you compiled a list of the perils facing the world and its population, the list undoubtedly would be long. But a startling number of them relate to or are worsened by inability to read; literacy is an integral part of the challenge of leading a productive, healthy, positive and happy life.

With this in mind, it is encouraging to see the worldwide Rotary organization join the fight against illiteracy.

Although the problem is most acute in Third World countries, the United States also has a poor report card. A study has shown that in Georgia, for example, one of every three residents is functionally illiterate. Illinois also has much room for improvement.

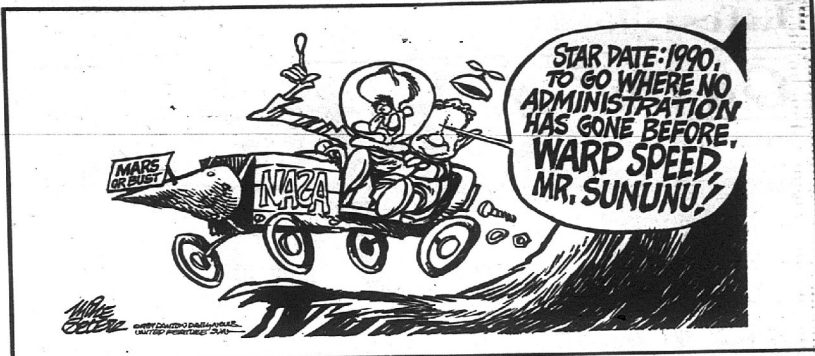

"Throwing money at the problem" may not be the answer. In fact, there is no unanimity on how best to proceed. An advantage of Rotarians' participation is that varied methods can be tried by the clubs; successful projects can be studied and copied.

As Rotary International sees it, illiteracy has reached epidemic proportions in both developing and industrialized nations, and it is increasing; at the same time daily life is becoming more complicated. When one cannot even fill out a job application or read the latest health information, it is obvious that such an individual will be seriously handicapped in overcoming poverty.

Rotary's decision to undertake such a difficult objective is important, not only in principle but from a practical standpoint.

America in the long run won't be able to keep up with worldwide competition even if all unfair trade barriers can be ended — unless it can be truly competitive in making products of high quality at reasonable cost. Whether high-technology or low-technology goods are being made, well-educated workers can make an immense difference.

Utility critics distort facts

To the editor:

The Illinois Public Action Council recently harvested a crop of newspaper headlines in Metro East with allegations that Illinois Power had "manufactured a crisis" which led to curtailment of electricity to 88 industrial customers June 20. Your readers are entitled to the truth.

IPAC contended that if we had used our 20 percent ownership share of the power plant at Joppa and if we had run our fossil-fuel generating stations at 1987 operating levels, we might have had sufficient electrical supply for all our customers June 20. Their language betrays their logic: IPAC says "might have, could have, should have, and it seems that IP may have..."

The facts are: Although we own 20 percent of the Joppa plant, we enjoy only 5.3 percent of its output. Most of Joppa's generating is committed to the Department of Energy's uranium enrichment program at Paducah, Ky.

We are now operating under a one-year contract dated Aug. 1, 1988, in which we selected generating times in advance. Under that agreement, we were not scheduled to take electricity during the week of June 20 and the schedule cannot be changed or adjusted.

Worker: Catastrophe by Ill. Power

To the editor:

Illinois Power is making news again. First it mismanages a multibillion dollar nuclear power plant that should have cost millions — and expects the consumer to pay for the entire cost. Now that we are paying for part of this catastrophe, IP can't even provide full service to all its customers.

IP claims it can no longer afford to purchase electricity from other suppliers to provide service to some customers. IP complains of its finances. If it would have worried more when the Clinton Plant was being constructed, there would be no problem or "financial situation."

This isn't the first letter I've written about IP. I worked as an electrician on this project and saw mismanagement and unnecessary work. I believe it was a conspiracy against consumers. IP didn't care. IP thought it could just raise rates and its mistakes would be covered. I saw work being done that IP knew would be torn out later. This same work was being inspected by numerous people.

IP knew full well that the work was not satisfactory and was being re-engineered because of Three Mile Island.

Many manhours were needlessly used. Instead of shutting down certain areas when changes were being made, the work was allowed to be put in wrong.

Recently when a Madison substation was damaged by a car, numerous electrical appliances were damaged; IP wouldn't even pick up the cost of a few appliance repairs for its customers who are paying for its mismanaged power plant.

I make my living on construction projects, but I am not afraid to blow the whistle when it comes to the stupidity and conviving ways of IP. Why should we pay any more for this power plant? We should all prepare for a long fight against any future rate increases.

Reader appreciated column on adoption

To the editor:

I appreciate Bill Winter's column on "Emphasis on adoption." Such quality support from our media people will go a long way to change the national mind-set for adoption as the answer to unwanted children.

Certainly, many couples are praying for the opportunity to rear children even though they are not able to be natural parents.

Let's write and call State Rep. Sam Wolf and State Sen. Sam Vadalabene to ask them to do what they can to stop abortions in Illinois. Thank God for the decision made that now puts this issue back in each individual's state.

How I spent my summer 'vacation'

Part I
It was the best of times, it was the worst of times. And with apologies to Charles Dickens, it was vacation, too.

Snooze time. Sun and fun. No honey-dos, just get in the car and go. Paradise on wheels. With four bags of goodies, three kids, two suitcases, one wife and no space left to see fellow motorists.

Following is a little diary of the trek, from Metro East to Branson, Mo., and back, taking in a few roads that were planned and several more that weren't.

Day 1, Hour 1: First bathroom break — Jefferson Barracks rest stop area, two minutes from the Mississippi. They wanted to stop in Illinois, but I've got my principles. "Hold it or roll-down the window," I said. They held it.

Day 1, Hour 2: First case of car sickness. Fourteen thousand square miles of open space and my daughter uses the one thing she can find — the family drinking cup. Dispersal notions of thirst for all others this trip.

Day 1, Hour 5: After what seems forever, according to the clockface at the hotel, we finally get to Branson, looking for Best Western. Turns out there are three Best Westerns in Branson. Ours is the one on the far side of town. At the end of Highway 76, the other end of nine miles of bumper-to-bumper traffic.

Day 1, Hour 6: Finally arrive at right Best Western.

Day 1, Hour 6.5 Minutes: Daughter spills batch of snack food in hotel lobby. Dad shakes head and walks away. Must be somebody else's kid.

Day 1, Hour 7-11: First major trip — to White Water, a water adventure park replete with water slides, pools, rafting, tidal waves, sunburns, gulped water and, price-gouging admission. Dad starts acting like kid again, running, jumping, hollering. Two sons shake head and walk away. Must be somebody else's father.

Day 1, Hour 12: Return to base. After half a day surrounded by water, the kids finally get to do what they had been wanting to do all along — swim in the hotel pool.

Next: Walnut bowls and other assorted tourist traps.

Does the U.S. need the B-2 stealth bomber?

At more than $500 million per aircraft, should the U.S. continue to invest in the B-2 stealth bomber that would replace the aging and obsolete fleet of B-52 bombers of the 1950s and '60s?

Dan Tankersley, 39, Granite City

"I doubt it. The first 11 (already ordered and funded) are too much, asking for more is getting out of hand. There needs to be better use of defense money and (tax) money all around. There are lots of other needs that should be funded first."

Terry Mangi, 32, Pontoon Beach

"I think they should go full ahead with the B-2. The B-52 is outdated and has served its purpose. (The B-2) is a peace keeper. You have peace through strength, not through weakness."

Lee Ashby, 64, Granite City

"I don't know that much about it, but we need a strong defense. As our possible enemies build up their weapons, we have to, too. We've lost too many lives protecting our freedom to throw it down the drain."

Investigator gets national post

The National Association of Legal Investigators elected Betty Miles-Smith, certified legal investigator, of Granite City as national secretary at the organization's annual meeting in Philadelphia recently. Smith is employed as a legal investigator by the law firm of Talbert & Mallon, P.C., in Alton.

The national organization, which recently celebrated its 20th anniversary, strives to improve the quality and image of legal investigators in the United States, and limits the membership to investigators for the plaintiff and/or criminal defense.

Betty is married to Michael Smith and has two children, Andrea Rhoads and Randal Miles, and three grandchildren. She has worked in law offices for 15 years, 14 of those as a legal investigator. In 1982 she became the second woman to achieve certification by the National Association of Legal Investigators, an elite organization for legal investigators for plaintiffs.

Such certification requires that the applicant pass oral and written examinations testing knowledge and ability in investigation of injury and death cases on behalf of plaintiffs. She continues to upgrade her education as a legal investigator by attending several continuing education seminars per year. She has served two terms as regional director of a seven-state region of the National Association of Legal Investigators and currently is chairman of the organization's Disciplinary Committee.

She has written articles on investigative techniques for plaintiff's personal injury cases and has lectured on the techniques of investigation at continuing education seminars.

She has extensive experience in the investigation of all kinds of personal injury cases, especially of claims related to railroad workers' injuries.

She was recently the subject of a feature article in The Legal Investigator, the publication of the National Association of Legal Investigators, recognizing her accomplishments.

In addition to being actively engaged in case investigations herself, Betty has been the supervisor of her firm's investigation department since 1985.

Woman talks to gathering

Katherine E. Belmer, of the Excel Consulting Group in Granite City and St. Charles, Mo., presented a session at the 45th National Conference and Exposition of the American Society for Training and Development in Boston.

The title of the session was "Organizational Surveys: Maximizing the Benefits."

More than 5,000 professionals attended the conference, which offered the latest information about workplace training and professional development. This year's theme was "The 1990s: A Decade of New Business Challenges."

The conference also included Expo '89, the world's largest training marketplace, featuring thousands of the latest professional products and services for trainers.

ASTD, based in Alexandria, Va., is the world's largest organization in the field of employer-based training, representing more than 50,000 professionals.

Magna declares dividend

William S. Badgley, chairman of the board of Magna Group Inc., Belleville, announced the board's declaration of the third quarter dividend of 17 cents per share. The dividend will be paid to all stockholders of record Aug. 15, payable on Sept. 10.

Magna, a multi-bank holding company, owns 15 banks with 46 locations in central and southern Illinois, a trust company, and a data processing company.

Ehnes named master broker

Geard R. Ehnes, whose territory includes Granite City, has been appointed a master broker for G.E. Financial Enterprises Inc., a full commercial loan brokerage firm.

The firm is located at P.O. Box 220168, St. Louis, Mo.

Attends Illinois Bankers School

Mary Lou Griffin, assistant cashier, teller supervisor at the First National Bank in Madison, has graduated from the Illinois Bankers School held May 21-27 at Southern Illinois University in Carbondale. The program, in its 37th year, is the flagship educational event of the Illinois Bankers Association.

In order to graduate from the school, students must attend the program for two years, completing a week-long summer session each year. Both years of instruction include classes in management, human resource management, management, loan management, marketing, bank operations and general management.

Between the first and second years, students must successfully complete five extension problems covering the various functional areas of a bank. In addition, BankSim, a sophisticated bank management simulation exercise developed by the American Bankers Association and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), was included in both the first- and second-year coursework. During BankSim, each participant was assigned to a bank management team and shared responsibility for the decision-making functions of a commercial bank.

The Illinois Bankers Association represents nearly 90 percent of the commercial banks in Illinois.

Peterson Sun metro editor

Mark Peterson, 34, head of the Associated Press bureau in St. Louis since 1984, has been named metropolitan editor of the St. Louis Sun, the new daily newspaper to be launched in September by Ingersoll Publications Co.

Peterson will direct the regional newsgathering operation for the Sun, according to Peter O'Sullivan, managing editor of the newspaper.

Peterson joined the AP in Kansas City in 1980 and was promoted to correspondent in charge of the AP office in St. Louis four years later. He supervised a staff of eight people responsible for covering eastern Missouri as well as the St. Louis metropolitan area.

A native of Chicago, Peterson received a bachelor of science degree in political journalism at Southern Illinois University at Carbondale in 1979.

He spent six months covering the Illinois General Assembly for United Press International as part of a master's degree program at Sangamon State University in Springfield before joining AP in Kansas City.

He is married to Deborah Peterson and they have two children—Benjamin, 5 years old, and Nicholas, 7 months. They live in Glenview.

Ingersoll Publications Co., headquartered in Princeton, N.J., publishes 40 daily and more than 150 non-daily newspapers in the United States and Europe, including the 42-edition Suburban Journals of St. Louis. It employs nearly 11,000 people and has annual revenue in excess of $800 million. Plans to establish the Sun, a 7-day per week daily newspaper, were announced by Ingersoll Publications in March.

Central Bank names 'Millionaire for Week'

Central Bank, 3303 Nameoki Road, Granite City, recently awarded its grand opening grand prize — the interest on $1,000,000 for one week.

Mr. and Mrs. Talmage Towery of Granite City were the winners. They were picked up in a chauffeured limousine, and taken to Central Bank on Nameoki Road to receive the cash prize from Bart J. Solon, president and chief executive officer, and Scott Mount, vice president. Mrs. Towery indicated they would use the money to pay doctor bills.

The grand prize drawing, conducted by Cardinal baseball announcer Mike Shannon, was the culmination of the Central Bank's Nameoki location week-long grand opening. More than 4,000 entries were deposited at all Central Bank locations for the grand prize drawing.

Central Bank is a member of the $285,000,000 Central Banc System Inc. bank holding company. It has locations in Granite City, Glen Carbon, Marine and Fairview Heights; and Farmers & Merchants Bank in Carlinville.

Kane: Local cooperation development key

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

It is essential that Metro-East economic development agencies and local governments be willing to work together and cooperate to ensure that this region receives its fair share of development money from the state, according to Mary Kane.

Kane — the executive director of the Southwestern Illinois Development Authority since April — spoke at a recent meeting of the Madison County Council in Madison.

She is the former executive director of the Leadership Council Southwestern Illinois. Because of the power of the Chicago area in the legislature, she said, the Metro-East has little influence in state politics, especially when it comes to funding.

"I've never been aware of the impact Chicago has in the state until I began to deal with finance," she said.

"We are 600,000 people down here, and I thought it carried some weight," she said. "But unless this region bands together and works very directly as a unit it doesn't make any difference."

"We are 600,000 people down here, and I thought it carried some weight. But unless this region bands together and works very directly as a unit it doesn't make any difference."

Mary Kane

"Chicago has such an influence that's the only way we're going to get our 50 cents worth in," she said.

However, Kane said she was very excited about several area projects: FAP 413, the Clark Bridge replacement, and the joint use of Scott Air Force Base.

After the meeting, Kane said the development authority is preparing to involve itself in area development.

It recently approved its first revenue bond — a $5 million warehouse and dry storage facility at the Tri-City Regional Port District in Granite City.

"Hopefully now we're beginning to move forward to do those kinds of things that the authority is charged with," she said.

A quasi-governmental agency, the development authority has the power to fund and expedite both governmental and private economic development projects in Madison and St. Clair counties.

Kane said the group can aid in governmental projects such as water and sewer lines and similar activities. It can also assist business and non-profit organizations.

"Our primary purpose is to promote and enhance general development activities in the two counties," Kane said.

"We do not do things that don't have an economic investment tie," she said. "Whether it's investment in the area or job retention or job creation, there has to be that linkage."

Owners sue Chrysler over altered odometers

ST. LOUIS — More than 30 owners of Chrysler Motors vehicles are seeking monetary damages against the automaker, alleging it defrauded them by driving their cars with disconnected odometers and then selling the cars as new, according to suit filed recently in U.S. District Court.

"The conduct of Chrysler violated unfair trade practices, false advertising, consumer protection and similar statutes of several states," the suit claims.

The car owners also claim the automaker violated the Federal Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act, also known as the RICO act, because it used the U.S. Mail and interstate wire communication systems to defraud consumers.

The RICO act often is used to prosecute organized crime. The owners are asking for an unspecified amount in punitive damages and three times actual damages, which have yet to be calculated, the suit said.

Two of the 33 car owners filing suit, Kendra and Brian Carpenter, are from St. Louis. The rest are from several other states across the country.

The car owners claim they were cheated by a long-standing Chrysler policy to take some cars immediately from assembly lines and test drive them without the odometers connected.

Had the car owners known about the test drives, they would have either declined to buy the cars or would have "not paid as much (for the cars)," the suit contends.

All of Chrysler's assembly plants, including the two in Fenton, participated in the "overnight excellence program," said a Chrysler spokeswoman in Detroit.

As many as 40,000 cars have been identified as being driven in the program from 1984 to October 1986, said Karen Stewart, the spokeswoman. The company can trace the cars back only as far as 1984.

The practice began in 1949, according to the lawsuit.

Stewart said she could not comment on the car owners' suit, but she said that Chrysler is trying to work out an equitable settlement with verified owners of the test cars and the attorneys general of several states.

The automaker revised its overnight excellence plan in October 1986 following publicity from an investigation into the practice by the Missouri Department of Revenue at the two Fenton plants.

The odometers on test cars now are active and notification of the car's use in the program is placed in the glove box of each car, Stewart said.

Parents, children: Start talking about sex

To the editor:

A recent public opinion poll confirms something we stand for and believe in at DCFCS: that families are a healthy society's most crucial building block.

In interview after interview, Illinois teens said they want their parents to provide them with more information about sex and sexual behavior. They also said they expect that information to help them form the moral cornerstone for their lives.

But the poll also revealed that parents and teens have a tough time talking about sex. The 500 surveyed parents said it was hard for them to start a discussion about sex, and the surveyed teens said it was hard for them to ask the questions.

As a parent, I know it's difficult to start a conversation about sexual behavior with your children. I know how awkward it is for parents to talk to their children about the feelings and temptations the youngsters are going to face.

We don't want to believe our children are "old enough" to be asking:

"Should I 'do it,' or should I wait?"

"Should I plan to use contraceptives?"

"Should I raise the child I've conceived?"

"Should I be a father to the child I've helped create?"

These are tough questions, but extremely important ones for parents to answer.

Last year while families waited for the "right moment" to start a discussion on these important issues, 22,000 babies were born to teens in Illinois. The 500 surveyed teens told us that they need and want more discussion with their own parents about sexuality and about parenting. Family communication is the best hope we have for solving the teen pregnancy crisis, for reaching youngsters before they create responsibilities they are emotionally and economically unprepared to shoulder.

That's why DCFCS funded the parent and teen poll for Parents Too Soon, the state's multi-agency initiative against teenage pregnancy. And as a result of the survey, Parents Too Soon has created a public awareness campaign: "It's Tough ... But It's Time to Start Talking."

TV and radio public service announcements, billboards and buscards remind parents that "It's time to Start Talking" and provide the Parents Too Soon hotline number, 1-800-4-CALL-US. Those who call will receive a packet of materials that help start the parent-teen discussion.

I believe that families can benefit immensely from this campaign. Teens want and need to know how to cope with the temptation that is all around them. They need to know about the very real responsibilities that parenting brings, and the risks they and their children will face should they find themselves parents too soon. Most parents, I believe, want to overcome their natural reluctance and provide this vital information to their children. Now they have some help.

I hope this campaign will serve as a reminder to every Illinois parent who has made a promise to have that important talk with their kids "someday." May these messages bring that "someday" closer.

Family thanks local hospital staff

To the editor:

The following is an open letter to staff members of the fifth floor oncology and cancer unit at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Tob often we are quick to complain but slow to praise. This letter is our attempt to communicate with each of you about how we feel concerning the outstanding services and treatment rendered to Edward Propes this past year.

Good hospital care is expensive, but the care that Ed has received at St. Elizabeth has been priceless.

It would be impossible to single out two or three for their outstanding services when every last one of you have given your supreme effort, love and concern in behalf of the patient and family. Your efforts did much to ease the pain that we all endured.

On behalf of the family, we want to convey our sincere thanks and appreciation for the loving way you cared for Ed.

God Bless each of you.

Residents see fire protection

To the editor:

The residents of Eagle Park Road says "thanks." After many years of living without fire protection, we the residents of this small stretch of highway located south of Eagle Park Acres now have a newly installed fire hydrant.

Thanks to the efforts of the Eagle Park Improvement Association, the late Harry A. Briggs Sr., and the Nameoki Township Supervisor D. Lee Ridgeway, we can now live more comfortably knowing that water is available if a fire arise.

Again we say thank you and may God bless you all.

Galatians 6:8 "...he that soweth to the Spirit shall of the Spirit reap ..."

The law of sowing and reaping is one of God's unchangeable laws. Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap. We will definitely reap what we sow.

It is our choice, our decision, to sow what we want to sow. Why not sow to the Spirit? Why not reap Spiritual harvests?

We can sow to the Spirit by prayer, Bible study, loving our neighbor, or just spreading some kindness along the way.

Whatever we sow, we shall reap.

How about sowing to the Spirit. Today.

SWEET APPLE TEENS surround their idol Conrad Birdie (Steve Friedel), pictured in center, in Summerstage's production of "Bye, Bye Birdie."

'Bye, Bye Birdie' to be next production of Summerstage

Elvis Presley is alive and well in Granite City — at least in the person of Conrad Birdie. Birdie is the title role in the musical "Bye, Bye Birdie," Summerstage's summer production. The show will be presented at the Granite City Township Hall on Aug. 4-6.

"Birdie" satirizes in good-natured fashion the almost ageless theme of teen idol worship. In this story, Birdie, an Elvis-type, has been drafted into the Army. What happens when he comes to a typical American town to kiss a typical American girl goodbye makes for great fun.

Steve Friedel heads the cast in the title role of Birdie. Other leading roles are: Albert Peterson (Steve Branding), Birdie's agent and songwriter; Rosie (Diane Wingert), Peterson's secretary; Peterson's mother (Ann Scott); Kim (Beth Bodnam), the girl to be kissed; Kim's parents (Kiki Supp and George Cochran); and Kim's boyfriend Hugo (Ben Sanders).

Other cast members include: Ryan and Sean Cochran, Julie Courtney, Jim Fensterman, Ron Blatz, Melissa Kozak, Becky Krummenacher, Diana Livingston, Gary and Jan Schneider, Jerry Tracy, Karen Tucker, Joey Hanke and Steven Snyder.

The teen-agers of Sweet Apple, Ohio, where the show is set, are played by: Ben Asbeck, Renee Biggs, Chris Blatz, Amy Courtois, Don Goss, Gina Hankins, Amanda Kelly, Laura Kostecki, Angela Markovich, Shelly McClelland, Kelly McClure, Nicholas McLaren, Nona Melford, Nicole Schneider, Leighann Scroggins, Alicia Skirball, Claudia Snyder and Sandy Stover.

Tickets are $5 for Friday's (Aug. 4) 8 p.m. show and Sunday's (Aug. 6) 2 p.m. matinee. Saturday's (Aug. 5) 8 p.m. show will feature a dinner theater, for which tickets are $10.

To get tickets or for more information, Summerstage can be called at 461-1032.

Archeologists plan field of activities in Kampsville

Archeology Day activities will take place Aug. 5 in Kampsville, Ill., according to Paul Katz of the Kampsville Archeological Center of Kampsville.

An opportunity to discover first hand the pre-historic heritage of the lower Illinois River Valley will be available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Cost is $10 for adults, and $5 for students through high school or with a valid college I.D. Children under 12 are free. For more information, people should contact the Kampsville Archeological Center at (618) 653-4316.

Polka king Yankovic to perform at Strassenfest

Polka king Frank Yankovic will appear at the 1989 St. Louis Strassenfest, which runs from July 28 to July 30 in Memorial Plaza across from City Hall in downtown St. Louis.

The Grammy Award-winning recording artist will be joined during four Strassenfest appearances by his longtime friend and musical colleague Herb Eberle. Yankovic, a resident of Cleveland, Ohio, will celebrate his 74th birthday during the Strassenfest weekend. He is known internationally for the best-selling recordings "Blue Skirt Waltz" and the "Just Because Polka." Eberle, a St. Louisan, hosts a daily polka radio show, "Herb Eberle's International Music Showcase," Monday through Friday on KSTL-AM (690). He also tours the country regularly with his own band.

Performances by Yankovic and the Herb Eberle Band on the main stage will be from 9 p.m. to midnight July 28 and 3 to 9 p.m. July 30. They also will perform from 3 to 6 p.m. July 29 on the South Park Stage and from 9 p.m. to midnight on the North Park Stage.

The 1989 St. Louis Strassenfest will again offer an arts and crafts show in the park bounded by Tucker Boulevard and 13th, Market and Chestnut streets across from City Hall.

Roxana targets Barton Landfill for annexation

By John Milazzo
Staff writer

EDWARDSVILLE — Any doubt in the minds of Madison County officials that the Village of Roxana has its gaze firmly fixed on possible annexation of the controversial Barton Landfill was eradicated during a Thursday meeting between county and village officials.

The meeting, at the Roxana Village Hall, convened at the request of the county's Environmental Committee.

Roxana Village President Paul "Buzz" Kindie opened the meeting by informing county officials that the village, "is now actively exploring the possibility of annexing property owned by Laidlaw Waste Systems."

The landfill in question is off Old Alton Road west of Edwardsville.

In the event the village annexed the property, authority for landfill expansion would transfer from the county to the village under state statutes.

The county board, following a lengthy application and hearing process, voted 19-7 in February 1988 to reject a Laidlaw request for a 223-acre expansion of the 30-acre Barton landfill.

County officials had learned through secondhand sources of the village's interest in an annexation, prompting their request for the meeting.

Kindie at one point in Thursday's meeting acknowledged that village officials have been viewing such an annexation from an economic perspective, seeing it as a potential windfall.

"We believe there may be potential benefits to our community and to surrounding communities from this annexation. We would be failing in our duties if we did not, at least, explore this opportunity," Kindie said.

The issue first surfaced about a month ago, Kindie said, when Laidlaw approached the village with the offer of possible financial assistance in building a sewer line from the village to a 500-acre parcel of land recently annexed by Roxana near the landfill.

Kindie said the village wants to develop that property as an industrial park.

But Environmental Committee Chairman Dick Worthen, D-Alton, advised Kindie and other village officials not to be put off guard by altruistic gestures made by the waste firm.

"The only reason you're considering this, the only reason they approached you in the first place, is for the expansion of that landfill."

"That's it in a nutshell. They just see you as easier to get around than the county," Worthen said.

Laidlaw regional vice president Charlie Leonard did not respond to telephone inquiries about the matter Friday.

The county expects to have the preliminary version of the Metro-East area's solid waste plan soon, Worthen said. The document, developed by the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council, will detail how Madison, St. Clair and Monroe counties will handle solid waste for the next 20 years. The plan may or may not call for additional landfill space in the county, officials have said.

Worthen asked that Roxana "take no official action" regarding annexation or allowing a landfill expansion until the solid waste plan has been fully reviewed, amended if needed, and adopted.

A schedule of public hearings on the plan — over a span of six to nine months — is expected to be adopted by the county board at its August meeting.

Kindie stressed that the village would "not approve anything that does not meet the strongest environmental test established by the state and other governments," and that the village is now only in the "looking phase."

He said the village did not intend to exclude Madison County from discussions of the annexation when village officials made inquiries about a Laidlaw landfill operation in St. Clair County.

"We are not going to be pressured into anything, we just thought that at the stage we were at, approaching Madison County was premature," Kindie said. "I have to emphasize this is only a potential move."

Kindie said that, before entering discussions with Madison County, officials wanted the opportunity to see how the firm was operating the St. Clair County facility. Kindie said the village's approach to St. Clair County was "not a means of backdoor Madison County."

During testimony prior to the defeat of the 1988 Laidlaw expansion request, experts said they were not satisfied that a plan advanced by the company was ignoring the county and the resources available through it.

In response to Worthen's request for a six-month delay in taking action on the matter, pending study of the comprehensive plan, Kindie said, "We won't commit to that."

Worthen, who earlier in the meeting had asked the village to join with other municipalities in the county to "cooperate with and help the county" in efforts to put together a unified approach to waste management, said refusal of such a commitment by the village was a slap at the county.

"By saying that, you're saying that your interests are more important than the county's as a whole."

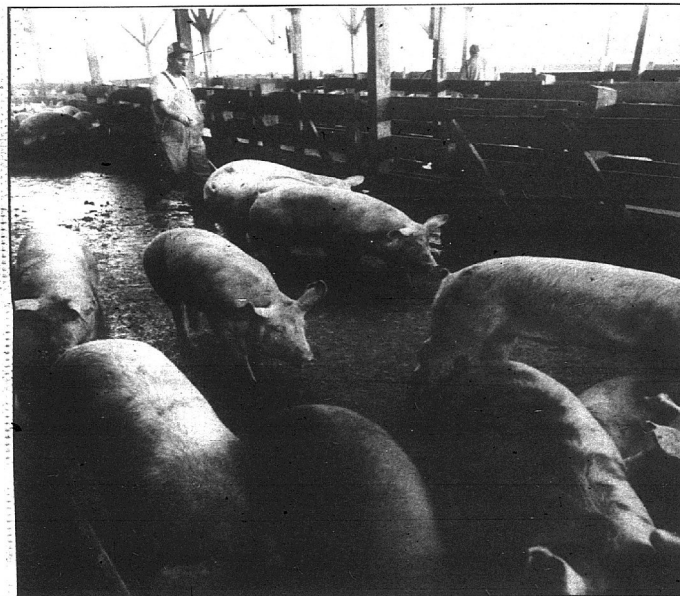

Committee member Bob Stille, D-Edwardsville, said that the committee members were puzzled because the village had not sought assistance from the county before approaching St. Clair County.

"We could have provided you with any information you wanted," Stille said, also pointing out that an expansion granted by the county to Laidlaw in 1982 "was supposed to last 20 years. It lasted seven."

Kindie said he was aware there is a wealth of information from last year's county expansion contract agreement, Kindie has indicated it would present an entirely new plan to the village.

In addition to the potential for tightly closing coffers through "host fees" that may be imposed on Laidlaw as part of an expansion contract agreement, Kindie said he believes there may be a critical need for expanded landfill capacity locally.

County officials offered to make records of the last expansion request available to the village and agreed to meet again to further discuss the situation.

EPA ready to wage war, targets household waste

The Illinois Environmental Protection Agency is asking local governments, civic groups and volunteer organizations to participate in a daylong state-sponsored "household hazardous waste" collection and disposal program.

According to the IEPA, some consumer products can present a serious hazard to human health and the environment if not properly discarded. Examples include banned or unwanted household pesticides, weed killers, old paint thinners, paint remover, antifreeze, kerosene, gasoline, household cleaners, pool chemicals and medicine.

State news

The IEPA will fund and sponsor six to 10 collection programs in various communities during the next three years. During the drive, the agency will accept hazardous materials and offer to dispose of the products in an environmentally sound manner.

Last year, the IEPA conducted three pilot collection programs in Quincy, Mount Carmel and Homewood and was able to divert 181 drums of household hazardous waste from disposal in local sanitary landfills.

Communities and other groups interested in hosting a collection day may obtain an application by writing: Cindy A. Schien, manager, Office of Public Information, Illinois EPA, 2200 Churchill Road, Post Office Box 1976, Springfield, Ill. 62794-9276.

123 road deaths recorded in June

State traffic deaths in June totaled 123 as a result of 109 accidents, according to tentative figures released by the Illinois Department of Transportation and the State Police.

Included in the June totals are 17 pedestrians, 17 motorcycleists and one bicyclist.

In Madison County, two traffic deaths were recorded in June, making a total of 32 deaths so far this year, up from 29 deaths last year.

Rural well survey to test water quality

The Illinois State Geological Survey will test 50 rural wells at random to try to determine the effects of pesticides and nitrates in rural water supplies.

Water samples will be analyzed for more than 40 different chemicals that have been extensively used in the state, particularly pesticides with a high potential to move through the soil.

"Our knowledge of the extent of agricultural chemical contamination of groundwater in Illinois remains limited," said Dennis McKenna, associate geologist. He said that previous sampling programs analyzed for relatively few chemicals and only sampled public water supply wells or those believed highly vulnerable to contamination.

Rights commission

The Alton office for the state Guardianship and Advocacy Commission will be renamed the Metro East Regional Office. The name marks the total accessibility to people with disabilities to the office.

The office is at Concord Plaza, 10251 Lincoln Trail, Fairview Heights, Ill. 62208, 397-0802.

Cahokia Mounds offers craft classes

Craft classes for children and adults will be held July 22 through Aug. 12 at Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site.

From 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. July 22 and 23, Jerry Wilson, who has done extensive research and experimental work in shell and bone, will instruct an adult class in Cattail Mats and Bone Needles for a cost of $20.

On Aug. 5, children will be taught about the mounds, make and the methods Indians used to follow their trails. The cost will be $5. On Aug. 12, adults will be taught to make a pair of Woodland moccasins for a cost of $10. Those interested in registering should call 346-5160.

Video gives warning of garbage crisis

If present trends continue, the state will have no place to put its garbage by the end of 1989, according to the Illinois Department of Energy and Natural Resources. That fact is the basis for a new half-hour video "Garbage ... the Mounting Crisis."

The video, intended to get people to realize the disposal problem is available to television stations, cable outlets and for showings to smaller groups. Individual VHS copies may be borrowed by calling the ENR Clearinghouse at 1-800-252-8855 or the Chicago office at (312) 917-3870.

Women go to traditional male jobs but only because males are leaving

CHAMPAIGN — A researcher has a phrase to describe the movement into traditionally male occupations over the last decade, and it is not "You've come a long way, baby."

"The message is, rather, 'He don't want it, she can have it,'" said Barbara Reskin, sociology professor at the University of Illinois at Champaign-Urbana.

In a new study of occupations in which women made the greatest gains during the 1970s, Reskin and her co-researchers found that much of the progress was made in jobs not no longer found attractive.

In many cases, women gained entry to lines of work — such as insurance adjusting, typing and bus driving — that men had dominated, but are abandoning as a result of deteriorating working conditions or occupational rewards," she said.

"Jobs remain sex and race-segregated and hence help perpetuate economic and social inequity. Without renewed pressure on policy makers to ensure access to all women and people of color to all jobs, we risk ending the 20th century with a labor force only slightly less segregated by race and sex than when the century began," Reskin said.

Using U.S. Census Bureau statistics, Reskin and co-researchers identified male occupations that became disproportionately more female during the '70s, then conducted in-depth case studies of more than a dozen of these industries, including auditing, computer operations, insurance adjusting, bartending, baking and bus driving.

They also have begun statistical analyses of the "determinants of changing sex and race composition for all 500 census-detailed occupations."

The researchers wanted to know why women made pronounced gains in some, but not other male-dominated occupations, and to what extent the numbers reflected genuine integration — and hence progress toward equality — and to what extent they reflected women's ghettoization in certain jobs within these occupations or the occupational segregation as a whole, Reskin said.

Research found that men retained the most desirable jobs, while women were confined to lower-status specialties, less desirable work settings and lower-paying industries. Women's gains were in such jobs as in-store baker, typesetter and public relations "communications technician."

Senate joins flag protection effort

WASHINGTON — U.S. Sen. Paul Simon, D-Ill., chairman of the Senate Subcommittee on the Constitution, has joined in introducing a bipartisan bill to protect the federal flag desecration statute by legislation instead of by constitutional amendment.

The bill removes language from the current federal statute that could endanger it on the same basis the U.S. Supreme Court recently overturned a conviction based on a flag statute in Texas.

The bill would continue to make desecration of the flag, including flag-burning, a federal crime, punishable by a fine of up to $1,000 and a prison sentence of up to one year, or both, whether or not the abuse is intended to convey a political message.

"I am a strong supporter of the right of free speech," Simon said. "If someone wants to make a speech denouncing the flag, much as I disagree with that speech I will defend that person's right to make the speech."

But burning the flag is another matter. In a real sense, the flag is a national monument.

"In the midst of the response to the Supreme Court decision on the flag," Simon said, "We should not hastily do something that is unwise. We should not rush in with a sledge hammer on something that can be fixed with a pair of pliers. I believe we can correct this matter with legislation. Before we tinker with James Madison's handwork on the Bill of Rights we ought to try to solve the problem by changing the law."

Simon chairs the Senate Judiciary Committee's Subcommittee on the Constitution, which oversees amendments to the Constitution and the proposed law.

Biden and Simon announced the Judiciary Committee will hold four days of hearings on the bill and the proposed constitutional amendment, beginning in August.

The federal flag desecration law now makes it a federal crime for "whoever knowingly casts contempt upon any flag of the United States by publicly defacing it." By removing the phrase "casts contempt" and the word "publicly" from the law, Simon said, the proposed bill would protect it against a similar constitutional challenge.

Because the court's decision was based on "political speech" and not on the act of burning the flag, removing the reference to speech or intent in burning the flag will protect the federal law from a similar challenge, said Simon.

Miners 'slam' Trenton 11-3

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — So what did the Miners do during their 10 days off? It looks like they took grand slam lessons.

Jamie Hogan and Bob Sirtak both came through with base-ball's ultimate hit as Granite City blasted Trenton 11-3 at Varsity Field on Wednesday. That raised the Miners to 8-4 in Metro East Night League action (18-16 overall) while Trenton fell to 6-4.

"I don't remember seeing two grand slams by the same team in one game too often," said Miners manager Daron DePew. "I think Willie McCovey hit two in one inning once. But this was nice for us."

The Miners remained very much in the thick of the playoff race in the Night League. They averaged a 7-4 loss at Trenton on June 7. By winning Wednesday's game by more than three runs, they also gained the tiebreaker edge over Trenton.

"We're in good shape," DePew said. "This was a nice one for us. Trenton has a real good team."

With four games in two days this weekend, DePew rolled the dice a bit and started left-hander Vern Lux. Lux, 34, hadn't pitched since his high school days until joining the Miners this year. He had pitched mostly in mop-up situations with limited success.

But Lux allowed only three runs and five hits in five innings against a good Trenton lineup.

"We got just what we needed out of Vern," DePew said. "Vern is a guy who wants to pitch. He wants to play for this team and we needed somebody to pitch this game. He went out there and did a great job."

Lux allowed solo home runs to Tim Hopcus in the second and on Detmer in the third. Another run scored on an infield out. The Miners scored in the first as Tim Wargo reached on a fielder's choice, moved to second on an error, stole third and scored on a throwing error by the catcher. Wargo drove in Tim Hogan — who had three hits — with a single in the third.

But the Miners trailed 3-2 when Rich Minder relieved Lux in the sixth — just in time to

Optimists roll into league finals

Boley (6-1) blanks Jerseyville 12-0

By Mike Kelly
Correspondent

GRANITE CITY — For the first time in three years, the Optimists have reached the District 22 Junior Legion league finals.

Granite City, probably playing its best game of the year — physically and mentally — routed Jerseyville 12-0 in five innings Tuesday at Varsity Field. The Optimists (15-10 overall) will take on Greenville in a quarterfinal game Saturday at Varsity Field (7 p.m.). Jerseyville wraps up its season at 9-11.

Unlike the teams' last meeting on July 16 (a 2-1 Granite City victory), this one was never close. Jerseyville committed three errors and handed the Optimists six unearned runs. Dave Boley pitched a five-hit shutout in raising his record to 6-1.

It was even amazing the game was played after Varsity Field got drenched by a heavy rain early in the day. But players and coaches worked vigorously to prepare the field, and by game time it was in excellent condition.

"I think being out here working on the field got these guys ready to play," said coach Carl Benson. They came out with the intensity to play, to win. A big key was not having any time to think about other things. The game was the only thing on their minds, and that got them fired up.

After taking a 1-0 first-inning lead, the Optimists broke the game open with a three-run outburst in the second. Ryan Reeves keyed the inning with a two-run double.

Reeves had a big night with a pair of hits, four RBIs and a run scored from the leadoff spot. Along with getting on base from the top spot, Reeves has also provided some power.

"It's really an advantage for us to have a leadoff hitter that can drive the ball like Ryan can," said Benson. "Most outfielders tend to cheat on the leadoff hitter, but he puts the ball into the gaps or over their heads. That gives us a lot of extra base hits, which also spells a lot of runs."

"This is the third time we've faced (Clint) Haynes this season," Reeves said of Jerseyville's starter. "He gave us some problems in the past, but I knew we would eventually stick him. It kind of surprised me that we won by such a lopsided score. Maybe their pitcher just didn't have his stuff tonight."

The lead grew to 6-0 in the fourth before the Optimists put the icing on the cake with a six-run explosion in the fifth. Granite City took advantage of four hits, three walks and an error as ten men came to the plate.

Boley had his usual day at the office. He scattered five hits, walked two and struck out six. The hard-throwing righthander, who recently developed a breaking ball, did a good job of mixing up his pitches.

"He's very competitive," said Granite City manager Paul Kacera. "He did an excellent job of freezing up their hitters by using the breaking pitch to set up his fastball. He's gaining confidence in that breaking pitch, and you can see it each time he goes out on the mound."

"Dave probably threw his best game of the year tonight," said Benson. "He pitched real smart by moving the ball inside and out. I know he has a no-hitter to his credit this year (Highland on June 10), but this by far was his best showing. He was thinking on every pitch against the hitters in certain situations."

Boley's efforts haven't gone unnoticed either. He's been selected to play in the AAU Junior Olympic Tournament, representing the Midwest, in San Antonio, Tex., on Aug. 5-13.

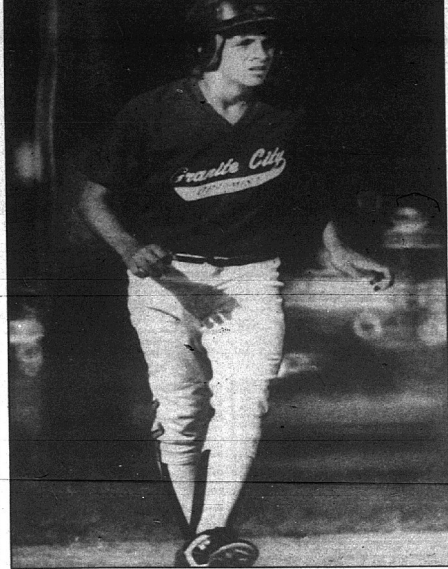

The next question for the Optimists is who will pitch on Saturday? Tournament rules stipulate that a pitcher can only throw 12 innings every 48 hours.

"I don't know who we'll throw on Saturday against Greenville," said Kacera. "Boley will be available for the weekend, but our other pitchers have done a good job during the season and we won't be afraid to use any of them."

The last time Granite City played Greenville was on June 13. The Optimists won that game 4-3 in eight innings. Dan Partney decided the issue with a home run — his second of the game. Mike Nordstrom was the winning pitcher. Greenville is 15-6 this year and won its division.

"Greenville's got a good ball club," said Kacera. "They're well-schooled and I'm sure it'll be a close, entertaining game. But if we play like we did tonight, I know our ball club can beat anybody."

The league finals will be held at Varsity Field this weekend. The format will consist of a four-game schedule each day, with games at 10 a.m., 1 p.m., 4 p.m. and 7 p.m. The four quarterfinals are Saturday, with the semifinal, third place game and title match on Sunday.

RYAN REEVES drove in four runs for the Optimists in Tuesday's playoff win.

Hodges gets North's only RBI in 16-1 All-Star win for South

By Curtis Duncan Jr.
Staff writer

FAIRVIEW HEIGHTS — The District 22 All-Stars were treated to a hitting clinic by St. Louis All-Stars on Monday as the Illinois squad took a 16-1 pounding. Those from the South Division must have learned some "thing."

The South team blasted out 15 hits in whipping the North squad 16-1 Tuesday in the District 22 All-Star Game at Longacre Park. Four South pitchers combined to hold the North to just two hits on the night.

Jeff Terveer of Belleville pitched the first three innings and Cahokia's Jimmy Meppiel, Bill Anderson of Marissa and Tim Pruett of Smithton worked two innings each.

The North's only run came in the ninth inning when Granite City's Kurt Hodges drove in Alton's Jason Whittman on a ground ball to short. Hodges was 0 for 4 on the night. Keith Blatlock and Kory Burton of the Triplets were also hitless.

Granite City righthander Jamie Needham pitched the final five innings for the North. He was touched for five runs on seven hits and a home run.

The solid pitching and the incredible hitting show by his club left South manager Jim McGuire of Smithton stunned. "It was night and day the difference between the way we played here and the way we

FIELD OF DREAMS? It looked more like a nightmare after Tuesday afternoon's rain at Varsity Field. But some hard work got the field in shape for Junior Legion action that evening and the Miners' game last night.

Tri-City Speedway hosts 2 special events

Exciting outlaw sprint action comes to Tri-City Speedway on Saturday as the All Star Circuit of Champions returns for its annual visit to the St. Louis area.

Together with the mighty MARRA midgits, the outlaw sprint cars will be at the 1-55 Raceways in Foveky, Mo., on Friday before coming to Granite City on Saturday for the fifth time. St. Louis radio and television personality Alan Barkledge will bring the go-karts of the St. Louis carting association to the track as well.

The All Stars will give away a free trip to Las Vegas each night, including air fare and rooms at the Circus Circus Hotel on Nov. 30-Dec. 2. One trip will be drawn at each track.

All Star points leader Jack Hewitt of Ohio leads a group of drivers coming from several states to compete for more than $40,000 in prize money. Each night pays $4,000 to win with a $16,000 purse. The midgits race each night for a $5,000 purse.

Scott Emrick, president of the All Star Circuit, is excited about bringing his traveling racers back to Granite City. Sprint cars are 700 horsepower, alcohol-burning open wheel cars that run up to 150 mph, 20 of them at the same time, on quarter to half mile oval tracks. The outlaw term originated in the 1970s when racers broke away from USAC rules and ran where they pleased.

Emrick said that although sprint car racing is one of the most dangerous-looking forms of racing, injuries are uncommon.

ANN LOGAN and Paddlers will be aiming for another SWISA diving championship on Saturday.

Paddlers divers head into championships after loss

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — If the Paddlers' season had been a little shot of reality, it came Tuesday.

Paddlers will not go into Saturday's SWISA diving championships unbeaten for the 1989 regular season. Summersport of Godfrey saw to that with a six-point victory in the final meet of the regular schedule at the Paddlers pool. It could be just what the Granite City club needed.

"I hope that can get us motivated for Saturday," said Paddlers diving coach Gail McCormick. "I noticed they were a little more aggressive in practice (Wednesday). Some of the older ones thought we would do a little better."

Losses for Paddlers are about as common as losses were for the UCLA basketball team in the late 1960s and early 1970s. They had won five straight SWISA diving championships — a one-point loss to Summersport last year in the championships — and their dual meet in St. Louis was a close one hand.

"Summersport will probably be the toughest team there," McCormick said of Saturday's meet, which Paddlers will host starting at 9 a.m. "But we could finish anywhere from first to fourth. Summersport is a very strong team gymnastically. I've coached some of them. Montclair is strong and Gaslight doesn't have a lot of divers, but what they have is excellent."

So it figures to be close. That means Paddlers will miss the presence of Jenny Baker, who will be competing in a Junior Olympic regional meet in Indianapolis this weekend.

That's 14 points we would

Beer for boredom

Local man hawks Cardinal owner's product

Sports
Of All Sorts

By Al Barnes

Most men drink beer to relieve themselves of boredom.

Not Joseph L. Harding, a Granite City man who has taken an early retirement. At 62, he found he was becoming bored. So soon after the first of the year, Harding began looking at the want ads and found a solution to his problem.

The ad was seeking people to sell beer at Busch Stadium during the baseball season.

Joe Harding and I go way back to the old St. Louis Star-Times. He had a job in the business office and I was a sports reporter. He had graduated from Granite City High School in 1945 and immediately entered the Army. He was discharged in 1947 and came to work at the paper that summer.

He later worked for the Tri City Grocery Co. for many years, and my oldest son Alvin III worked with him there.

Harding now works for Sports Service, one of a number of individual firms which take care of the needs of the thousands of fans who jam Busch Stadium to follow their favorite team. When Joe answered the ad, he talked with Shirley Kramer, personnel manager of Sports Services. They hit it off right away when she told him her maiden name was almost the same as his — Hardin.

Hustling beer at the stadium isn't an easy job. Joe has lost more than 20 pounds since the start of the season. One of the worst problems is that he must "card" everyone who looks like he or she may not be of legal drinking age. One guy Joe challenged turned out to be 37. Pleased no end, the man tipped Harding $10.

Joe Harding
...beer salesman

Harding reports that he hardly ever has time to follow the game's progress.

"People are always — or nearly always — on their best behavior," he said. "We can't serve them the beer in the cans. We must pour it into plastic cups and pass it on up or down. The average sale is two cans."

Harding's real sports passion is horse racing, particularly the Kentucky Derby. His first was in 1948 when Citation won on his way to the Triple Crown. He's seen every Derby but two since then.

The local Elks Lodge 1063 elected him Elk of the Year for 1989-90 and he was recently elected president of the Elks National Bowling Association.

HARDING MAKES a sale to some early-arriving customers at a recent Cardinal game.

Harding will preside over the 70th annual Elks bowling tournament in Port Wayne, Ind., next winter. He also served as Exalted Ruler of the local lodge in 1972-73.

With Joe Harding hustling

beer sales and Dai Maxvill in the front office, a pair of Granite City natives are playing key roles in the Cardinal organization. As far as I'm concerned, both jobs are in very good hands.

have for sure," McCormick said. "There is nobody here who can touch Jenny in the diving events. But she needs to be where she's going. This is a great opportunity for her, and she shouldn't miss it."

McCormick said she wished she had another two weeks to prepare.

"We're a little weaker in the younger age groups this year," she said. "But we have a lot of new kids this year and it takes time to adjust to the competition. There's a lot more to diving than just jumping off the board."

"Still, Paddlers figures to be right in the thick of things."

"Jeremy Weaver (13-14 age group) has been a pleasant surprise this year," McCormick said. "He has really improved. And Ron Selph and Jim Shepard in the older age group have been steady all year. Brooke Bjorkman has improved well in the 13-14 group, but she will have her work cut out for her Saturday. Julie Goclan has been right there with Brooke also. And Amy Kraus (11-12 girls), when she has her head screwed on straight, can be a big help to us."

Scoreboard

Park holds tennis tourney next week

The Granite City Park District will hold a tennis tournament next week at the Wilson Park courts.

The tournament will run from July 31-Aug. 3. Children are to report to the courts at 9 a.m. on Monday. Adults should report at 6 p.m. Monday. Entry forms are available either at the Wilson Park office or upon arrival Monday.

For more information, call John Van Buskirk at 931-164 or the park office at 937-3059.

Two hoops camps in August at GCC

Registration is still open for two summer basketball camps at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College.

Paddlers has adult party next Saturday

Paddlers Swim Club will host its last adult party of the year on Aug. 5 from 6:30 p.m. to midnight.

The cost is $5 per person. Tom Flynn of Laclede's Landing will provide the music. Flynn performs at Harpo's and Sundacker's with a large repertoire of pop and rock and roll classics.

Swimming, dancing and volleyball will be included at the party. Guests are invited.

The SWISA swimming championships will be Aug. 5 at Summersport.

NOTES: In the diving meet Tuesday, Kevin Harris (10-11 boys), Amy Kraus (11-12 girls), Brooke Bjorkman (13-14 girls) and Ron Selph (15 and over boys) got firsts. Seconds went to Jeremy Weaver (12-13 boys), Julie Goclan (13-14 girls) and Julie Simon (15 and over girls). Thirds went to Kiki Huff (10-11 girls), John Nizinski (11-12 boys), Alicia Skirball (11-12 girls) and Jim Shepard (15 and over boys).

Elks 76 has tryouts

The Elks 76 traveling soccer team is holding tryouts for the upcoming season, according to coach Jim Gibson.

Tryouts will be held Aug. 7, Aug. 9, Aug. 15 and Aug. 17 at Grigsby Junior High School at 6 p.m. For more information, call 931-7082.

played at St. Louis," McGuire said. If the pitching wasn't enough, there was plenty of offense, especially from the Belleville duo of Tad Smith and Chris Evans. They combined to drive in 11 runs as Smith cracked a three-inning grand slam and Evans went 3 for 4 with six RBIs.

"Smith and Evans really gave us our offensive punch tonight with the grand slam and those doubles," McGuire said. "They are quality players."

The South got out to a 5-0 lead in the first inning against Edwardsville's Joe Fletcher, who took the loss after going 4-0 during the regular season. Evans capped the inning with a three-run double to center. The South broke it open with another five runs in the third to make it 10-0.

Evans drew a walk to lead off, stole second and went to third on a passed ball. Kurt Junker of Belleville drove in Evans with an infield hit to the right side. After Waterloo's Darren Balts singled and Tim Fulte was hit by a pitch to load the bases Smith, deposited a 3-1 pitch from Edwardsville's Dave Jones over the fence in left.

The South stars added four in the sixth to make it 14-0. O'Fallon's Chad Jackson singled and East St. Louis' Jason Ford walked to start the inning. Evans drove them both home and scored on a wild pitch. Saltz and East St. Louis' Darian Nash of East St. Louis got back-to-back doubles for a run. Nash closed out the scoring in the eighth as he clouted a two-out solo homer off Needham.

NOTES: In a pre-game ceremony, Smithon shortstop Scott Muehl was named the District 22 Most Valuable Player. Muehl hit 240 this summer. Collinsville's Doug Fish won Coach of the Year honors and his team won the Team Sportsmanship Award, which is selected by the league umpires. Matlock had an RBI single in the District 22 All-Stars' loss to the Missouri squad at Heine Meine Field on Monday.

due to strict safety regulations. The Midwest Auto Racing Association midgets are smaller versions of the sprint cars, but run without wings.

All races are evening events with gates opening at 5 p.m. and racing at 8 p.m. Starting at 7 p.m., all cars run two qualifying laps, heat races, a last chance race and the 30-40 lap main event.

For more information on Saturday's races, call Tri-City Speedway at 931-5255 or 931-9965, or Terry Miller at 254-8122. Bob Wente brings the U.M.P. late model stock Red Baron Pizza Shootout to Tri-City Speedway on Wednesday, featuring NASCAR Winston Cup driver Ken Schrader.

The event will offer more than $15,000 in prize money for the 40-44 feature event. Schrader will face a strong challenge a field including Kevin Gundaker, Jeff Purvis, Billy Moyer and Mike Wallace.

A special attraction will feature open modified competition. Allied champions Eddie Dixon, Don Klein and Mike Hamerle head the list of entries for the 25-lap event.

Gates open at 5 p.m., with an autograph session at 6 p.m., time trials at 7 p.m. and the first race at 8 p.m. Tickets ($12.50 for adults, $5 for children 5-15 and free for children under 5) are available at the gate or by sending a check to Wente Enterprises, P.O. Box 6024, St. Charles, Mo., 63302. For more information, call Wente at 314-947-7287 or the track at 931-9965 or 931-7826.

Last Saturday's regular schedule of racing was rained out.
